

UNC Chapel Hill's Department of Linguistics and the Linguistics Graduate Student Association invite you to attend:

The 2003 Linguistics Colloquium

Saturday, April 5, 9 a.m.- 5 p.m.
Toy Lounge, 4th Floor Dey Hall

Keynote Speaker: Kyle Johnson, University of Massachusetts at Amherst

Guest Speaker: Andy Wedel, University of California at Santa Cruz

-
- 8:45 Breakfast
- 9:15 Acquisition of the mora in Japanese children
Maki Takahashi, UNC-CH and Reiko Mazuka, Duke University
- 9:45 The lexical and compositional semantics of noun compounds
Mark Arehart, University of Michigan
- 10:15 Medical vernacularization in 14th century England- the rising prestige of the English language
Kara VanDam, UNC-CH
- 11:00 Emergence of Nominal Agreement in Spanish Early Grammar
Gilda M. Socarras, Georgetown University
- 11:30 Andy Wedel, University of California at Santa Cruz
- 12:30 - 2:15 Lunch Break
- 2:15 Statal and Dynamic Aspectuality in Gothic
Elisa Pollack, UNC-CH
- 2:45 Tide and tied: Perception of the Scottish Vowel Length Rule
Kathleen Currie Hall, UNC-CH
- 3:15 Isomorphism between Parameters of Aspect and Properties of Matter
Laura Janda, UNC-CH
- 4:00 Focus Projections and Islands
Kyle Johnson, University of Massachusetts at Amherst
-

www.unc.edu/depts/ling/

This event funded at least in part by Student Fees which were appropriated and dispersed by the Student Government at UNC-Chapel Hill.