LING 542
Pidgins and Creoles

This course examines of the social contexts of language contact and their linguistic outcomes, with particular emphasis on the formation of pidgins and creoles. We shall investigate the structural properties of these new contact languages and evaluate the conflicting theories that explain their genesis.

Crosslisted as ANTH 542

Prerequisite: LING 101 or equivalent

Spring 2021

Prof. Paul T. Roberge

Tues./Thurs. 2.00 – 3.15pm